SKETCH OF HIS LIFE.

Henry Ward Beecher was born at Litchfield, Conn., June 24th, 1813, and came of a family distinguished in the church and literature. His father, Lyman Beecher, as a minister, was fully as celebrated as his son afterward became, and was the author of a number of standard religious works. His sister, Catherine Esther, was for thirty years one of the first teachers in New England, and wrote numerous books on various subjects. His brothers, Edward and Thomas, were prominent clergymen and authors. His sister Harriet, better known as Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe, was the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which has had a wider sale than any other American work of fic-ion.

Henry Ward Beecher was educated at Amherst college, graduated from that institution in 1834. He studied theology at Lane seminary, and in 1837 became paster of a Presbyterian church at Lawrenceburg, Ind. In 1839 he took charge of a church at Indianapolis. Here his talents brought him recognition, and in 1847 he received a call from Plymouth church, a new Congregationalist organization. Here his talents brought him recognition, and in 1847 he received a call from Plymouth church, a new Congregationalist organization in Brooklyn. He accepted the offer, and from the outset he began to acquire that reputation as a pulpit orator which he maintained and increased for forty years. Under his guidance the congregation became the largest in America. His style was fascinating, and brought to his church many communicants. He always discarded the mere conventionalities of the clerical profession. In his view, humor as well as argument and exhortation had a place in a sermon. He was find of illustration, drawing his materials from every sphere of human life and thought, and, in his manner, he was highly dramatic. Though his keen sense of humor continually manifested itself, the prevailing impression given by his discourses was one of earnestness and thought. The cardinal idea of his creed was that Christianity was not a series of philosophical dogmas, but a rule of life in every phase. Hence he never hesitated to discuss from the pulpit the great social and political questions of the day, such as slavery, intemperance, the desire of power and the greed for gain. He was an enthusiast in music, a connoisseur in art and a lover of flowers and animals. Apart from his professional labors he was a popular lecturer in lyceums, and a faverite orator at public meetings.

Before beginning to preach, Mr. Beecher edited, in 1836, a newspaper, the Cincinnati Journal, and while pastor at Indianapolis had charge of an agricultural journal, his contributions to it afterward being published under the title, "Fruits and Flowers, and Farming." For nearly twenty years he was an editorial contributor to The Independent, contributions to it alterward being published under the title, "Fruits and Flowers, and Farming." For nearly twenty years he was an editorial contributor to The Independent, a weekly journal published in New York, and frem 1861 to 1863 was its editor. His contributions to it were signed with a crossmark, and many of them were collected and published as "The Star Papers." Since 1870 he was editor of the Christian Union, a weekly paper published in New York. His regular weekly sermons, as taken down by stenographers, have been printed and published since 1859. Besides these he has published "Lectures to a Young Man," "Life Thoughts," "Sermons on Liberty and War," "The Plymouth Collection of Hymns and Tunes," "Norwood," a novel originally published in the New York Ledger, to which he was a constant contributor; "Sermons lished in the New York Ledger, to which he was a constant contributor; "Sermons from Published and Unpublished Discourses," "Life of Christ," and "Yale Lecture: on Preaching." In 1863 he visited Great Britain, with the special purpose of disabusing the British public in regard to the issues of the American civil war. His speeches exerted a wide influence, and were published in London. In 1874 came the sensational Beecher-Tilton affair, which became known to all the world through the remarkable trial which followed. Of this it is not necessary to treat in detail, as its sensational features are still remembered. Of late years Mr. Beecher has lectured much, of this it is not necessary to treat it a detail, as its sensational features are still remembered.

Of late years Mr. Beecher has lectured much, and his liberal views upon evelution brought much criticism from orthodox circles, a fact, however; which seemed to have little effect upon the great preacher. He dismissed his critics, in his last lecture delivered in this city with: "Father, forgive them; they know not what they do."

In the political campaign of 1884 Mr. Beecher supported Mr. Cleveland, drawing from his political associates of a life time the severest criticism and abuse. Of course he felt this, but there was that in his sunny nature which enabled him to suffer and be strong, and he gave no sign of the pain that was so ruthlessly inflicted upon him. Since the close of the campaign he has not been brought before the country with greater prominence than that which has long attached to him as the greatest of America's pulpit orators, and one of the master intellects of his time.

STRANGE ACTION OF CONGREGATIONALISTS.
CHICAGO, March 8.—Commenting on the failure of the Congregational ministers to adopt unanimously the resolution to send a telegram of condolence to Mrs Beecher, at their meeting yesterday, the Times says:

"Alas! For the rarity of Christian charity." At a meeting of the Congregational ministers of Chicago yesterday, a resolution of condolence with Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher was offered. Strange to say, the resolution produced a heated and bitter discussion, and developed so much opposition that it was finally withdrawn by the mover. The proposed tender of sympathy was objected to on two grounds.

That it might be construed as an indorsement of Mr. Beecher's theological views and that the dy-ing divine had never fully cleared himself of the charges of immorality brought by Theodore Tiling divine and never they detered himself of the charges of immorality brought by Theodore Tildon.

The doctrinal objections, however, seemed to carry the most weight, and it was evident that while the brethren were ready to forgive Mr. Beecher for any lapses from virtue of which he may have been guilty, they could not find it in their hearts to overlook his lapses from orthodoxy. The action of these Congregational clergymen displays a spirit of narrowness and intolerance which it was hoped had vanished forever from the Protestant pulpit of America. Those who can conceive of Henry Ward Beecher withholding his sympathy, under like direumstances, from the wife of a dying fellow-clergyman, may be able to discover some justification for this pitful exhibition of clerical bigotry. But none others can. It had been supposed that even Christians ceased hating each other at the grave.

But it would appear from yesterday's proceedings of the Congregational preachers of Chicago that such is not always the case.

The Inter Ocean says:

that such is not always the case.

The Inter Ocean says:

The discussion over the resolution of sympathy to Mrs. Beecher, at the meeting of the Congregational ministers yesterday, was worse than unfortunate. It was in many of its phases simply disgraceful. Those who opposed the resolution-which simply tenders the sympathy of the Congregational ministers of Chicago to a woman hanging over the deathbed of her husband, and that husband the greatest preacher of the Congregational church—based their opposition on the theory that some people might construct this expression of sympathy into an indorsement of Mr. Beecher's theological views.

pathy into an indorsement of Mr. Beecher's theological views.

What a comment on the action of the Congregationalists was the action of the Methodist ministers, who, at about the same time, adopted by unanimous vote, and without discussion, a resolution tendering their sympathy to Mrs. Beecher Those who opposed the resolution took a great risk, granted that their motives were good. Still, they made a mistake which, in the light of possible effects, was almost a crime.

The blood of millions will boll over this insult to the memory of a man who has been a tremendous force in our civilization—who has done so much, not only for his own church, but for Christianity, and among all those interested in extending the influence of the church, there will be keen regret over the unfortunate incident of the meeting of the congregational ministers yesterday. As the case stands a man whose sermons and whose work have done more for Congregationalism than any other has received a blow that will hurt those who are near to him for all time.

The Standard says:

Mr. Beecher was one of the comparatively few Americans enjoying a world-wide reputation, having peculiar exceptional gifts, and for the ministry his capacity for work was amasing.

He leaves no system, either of theology or of church government. His influence, except as personal recollection, ends with his life. He was for Americans a great expositor of his time. He was a great preacher and nothing but a preacher.

Washington, March 8.—[Special.]—Treasurer Jordan said today that he had received a large number of trade dollars which had been circulated in China and had been stamped with the China characters. These trade dollars had been evidently bought up by speculators and sent to the treasury for redemption. How extensive a trade had been made in the stamped coins he could not tell, but probably quite a large amount had been purchased, as quite a large amount had been purchased, as they had been received in a great number of lots for redemption. If it was the expectation of those who bought them that they would be redeemed at par, they are very much mistaken, redeemed at par, they are very much mistaken, for they can only be received as bar silver, and redeemed as such. These coins will probably retard the redemption of unmutilated trade dollars somewhat, and will result in less to those who speculated in them. The treasury department is now engaged in drawing up regulations to govern the redemption of the trade dollars, which will designate the specific sub-treasury to which they shall be specific sub-treasury to which they shall be sent as well as the methods to be observed in sent as well as the methods to be observed in their transmission. CHICAGO, March 8.—The winter hog-packing season, which lasts about one hundred working days in Chicago, closed the last day of February. While Chicinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City and other packing centers of the west, turned out an increased product, Chicago ran behind, the shortage, as against last season, being, in round numbers, 700,000 hogs. The cause of the shortage was, it is stated, the great strike at the stockyards and its direct and indirect effect upon the business of packers and the Chicago market. A local paper, computing the number of men idle, and the wages lost on account of this shortage, says it is evident that the shortage of 700,000 hogs this season means the loss of $700,000 in wages, and that at least 5,000 men, skilled and unskilled, who were employed last season, failed to find work.

The Burning of Nicoll's Tailoring Establishment is New York Causes a Biockade of Hievated Cars. Passengers Attempt to Walk the Trank But Fall to the Street Below.

NEW YORK, March 8 .- A fire occurred at five o'clock this morning in the store of Nicoll, tailor, in the Bowery, which caused the loss of between $50,000 and $60,000. Trains on the elevated railroad were blocked by the flames. The blockade occurred all the way down to The blockade occurred all the way down to South Ferry and on the down track up to 17th street. A number of passengers left the train at 17th street and started to walk along the narrow footpath at the side of the track to the station at 14th street. While doing so the blockade was relieved and trains began to start. Their motion shook the pathway to such an extent that a number of passengers were thrown down to the street. Three of these were instantly killed and seven others badly injured.

Soon after the fire occurred a down train was blocked with trains from Ninth to Fifty-second streets. All the trains were crowded with people. Along the side track is a platform two and a half feet wide, used by trackmen. Above Fourteenth street it is not provided with a hand rail. One of the passengers, named Patrick Mathews, on 'a train which was blockaded between the stations, grew impatient of watting, and opened the gate on the car platform, stepped down to the platform beside the track and started to walk to Fourteenth street. LINE OF MEN IN SINGLE FILE, in close order on this platform, headed by Mathews. When Mathews had nearly reached Fourteenth street the blockade was broken, and the trains started up one after another. The shaking of the track and noise and rush of cars apparently frightened Mathews, because he turned and dashed for the car platform. The man next behind him did the same, but Mathews's hold apparently broke and he toppied back upon the man behind him and both fell backwards into the street. The commotion on the platform created by this occurrence frightened and demoralized others close to them. Some came in collision and fell, while others jumped from the platform to the street below and still others hurriedly scrambled upon the passing cars. Shouts and screams outside communicated the panic to the passengers inside the cars, and many women fainted. The trains were stopped and everybody remaining on the platform was taken on board the cars. Ten men fell or leaped to the street, about twenty feet below, and struck upon the surface car track or stone pavement.

FOUR WERE KILLED OUTRIGHT, their skulls being crushed in each instance. The other six were seriously hurt. One has aince died in hospital and another is reported dying. It is supposed several others made the leap, but were not so seriously hurt. One has aince died in hospital and another is reported dying. THE STATE. The Developments of the Past Wesk in Dalton-Bit chases of Real Estate and Advance Prices-Discoveries of Mineral Ores and the Development of Old Properties."

DALTON, GA., March 8, -[Special.]-Dalton has at last awakened from her deep Rip Van Winkle slumbers, and now steps to front, and will keep step to the martia music of the great southern boom.

The Dalton and Land Improvement company have secured the "Orchard hill" property form-erly owned by the Hamilton estate, lying north of the city, and containing sixty acres, which will be divided into city lots and put on sale. This property is by far the most valuable in the city, as the new street car line, the stock of which has all been taken, will run imme diately through it, and the water works reser voir, which will be a splendid steel hand pipe eighty feet in hight will stand on top of the "Orchard hill," where will be made a beautiful park. Besides this addition the company will have twenty acres splendid level land ly ing on the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad in one tract, which will be divided into lots for building and manufacturing sites. This is very desirable property west and the East Tennessee road on the east and all inside the city limits.

These two tracts and some improved property comprises the north side addition.

The "south side" addition contains over two hundred beautiful building lots, all facing the East Tennessee and Western and Atlantic railroads, and running back to the foot hills that skirt the eastern side of the city. There are also some improved property in this addition. The "west view" addition comprises a tract of five acres now owned by Mr. Black, and lying on the hill facing east, giving a beautiful view of the city; the street car line on Thornton avenue will run in one block of all this property, which makes it at once very desira-ble for residence lots. A great many lots have charged hands in the last few days, some of which we notice. Mr. G. W. Cannon paid J. C. Norton $2,000 for a lot on Cleveland street; 8 E. B. paid Mrs. Stafford $600 for a building lot on — street; S. E. Berry to M. P. Berry, lot on Robert street, $800; H. K. Main, lot 100 on Spencer street; S. W. This place, situated on the Marietta and North Georgia railroad, 110 miles from Atlanta, eight miles from the North Carolina line, twenty miles from Murphy, the terminus of said road when completed, and ten miles from Duck-town, the far famed copper mines, is certainly a most remarkable place, taking into consid-ra-tion the vast deposits of marble, slate, tale or cotton rock, mica, manganese, etc., that exist here and in close proximity, which, taken all together, justly entitles it to the appellation of Mineral Bluff."

The railroad company are building a farge and commodious depot of brick in anti of doing a heavy shipping business from this point, which is justified by the increased daily shipments on the road. Eager, the principal con-fractor of the road, has leased a portion of the Ducktown copper mines for twenty five years, and no doubt will control the whole, his object being to manufacture sulphuric acid, copper, etc., which at once necessitates an arm of the sailroad to Ducktown, from the fact of the immense tonnage consequent upon the running of these mines, if we judge from the past operations. In fact, if those mines were run up to their full capacity, as was done under the superistendence of Captain Raht and others years ago, it would be no exaggeration to say that the tonnage from that source alone would equal that of the whole road. There has been some speculation as to the point at which the arm will leave the main line for Ducktown. This place and Blue Ridge are both spoken of.

7. Where, in a suit for damages against the keeper of a toll bridge by a traveler, the only breach of duty alleged was the negligent failure of the defendant to keep his bridge in safe condition for travel, and there was no other allegation of bad conduct on his part, it was error to charge that "if any damage should occur by reason of the neglect or carelessness or the bad conduct of the toll-bridge keeper, he would be liable, provided the party who was crossing exercised ordinary care and dilligence in so crossing." Such a charge was inapplicable to the case.

Taking all the evidence in this case together, it is plain that the defendant acted under duress, and that his consent to the arrange under dures, and that his consent to the arrangement by which he agreed to a transfer of certain property to the prosecutor was not free, but that his will might have been constrained by the threats and his conduct, induced by the violent conduct of the prosecutor. If such were the case, it would not only avoid the contract, but do a way with the sale which it is alleged, was thereby effected. And in such a leged was thereby effected. County of Floyd vs. Rome Street Railroad Co.

County of Floyd vs. Rome Street Railroad Co.

Refusal of injunction, from Floyd. Roads and Bridges. Streets and Sidewalks. Municipal Corporations. County Matters. Railroad Easements. (Before Judge Maddox.) Hall, J.—The corporate limits of the city of Rome extended to the further bank of a river, and the authorities of Floyd county built a bridge across the river, connecting a street of the city with its continuation beyond the river, and placed the bridge under the control and management of the municipal authorities, who took charge of it and engaged to keep it in repair, but stipulated that, in case of its destruction by flood or from any other cause, they should not be bound to rebuild it. Under the power contained in its charter, and with the consent of the corporate authorities both of the county of Floyd and the city of Rome, a street railroad company constructed its tracks across the bridge and ran its cars backwards and forwards over it until the bridge was washed away by a flood. The county replaced the old bridge by a new structure upon the same site. The company set about laying its tracks over this new bridge, but the county authorities objected, unless the company would agree to pay for the privilege of using such bridge, and upon refusal to doso, filed a bill to enjoin the use of it until the county should be compensated therefor:

Held, that the injunction was properly refused.

Held, that the injunction was properly refused.

(a.) The bridge as originally constructed and as now constructed is wholly within the limits of the city of Rome. The bridge forms a continuation of the street of the city across the river, and is a part of such street. Acts 1874, p. 199; Code, § 5.

(b.) A distinction between a street and a highway in respect to such use is not tenable. Pierce R. Rs., 232 and cit. in notes 2 and 3.

(c.) A railroad operated by horses on a public highway is not an appropriation of that highway to a different use. Pierce R. Rs. 232, 233-240 and cit.

(d.) The legislature, unless restricted by the state constitution, may, even without the consent of the municipality, and without allowing it compensation, authorize railroads to be laid in its highways, but the statute may require the consent of the municipality. Pierce R. Rs., 246 and cit. in note 5; 45 Ga., 602; 71 Id., 123-125.

246 and cit. in note 5; 45 Ga., 602; 71 Id., 123125.

(e.) Where the consent of the county authorities to the use of the bridge had been given, and the condition on which it was accorded was accepted and acted on by the company, it became a binding contract until the license was revoked by the only authority having power to revoke it. Pierce R. Rs., 247 and cit. in note 9.

(f.) Where any part of a public street or highway is washed out or otherwise destroyed by any means, and the damage is repaired by a new structure upon the portion thus destroyed or rendered unfit for use, this does not give the county a right to exact additional compensation from a railroad company, which, previously, to the injury, used the street or public highway with the assent of the municipality, where the railroad company proposes to make the same use of the street or highway after it has been repaired.

(g.) The act of October 7, 1885, did not affect the right of the railroad company to the use of the bridge, which had previously accrued. That act was not intended to restrict the company's franchise, but to extend it upon the conditions named therein.

Roberts vs. Hinson et al. Complaint for land, from Ware. Mortgages. Levy and Sale. Deeds. Title. Evidence. Verdict. (Bsfore Judge Mershon.)
Hall, J.—1. Where land was fully described in a mortgage, the judgment of foreclosure thereof, and the execution issued therson, as lot number 480 in the 5th district of Ware county, and the entry of levy was "I have this day levied on the lot of land number 480 in the 5th district," signed by the shoriff of Ware county, the levy was not so uncertain as to be void, or as to render it doubtful what land was sold. The deed to the purchaser, describwas sold. The deed to the purchaser, describwas sold. The deed to the pureaser, asserting the land as lot number 480 in the 5th district of Ware county, conformed to the levy, and was admissible as evidence of title, and not merely as color of title. 70 Ga., 756; 12 Id., 440; 59 Id., 649; 65 Id., 201.

Id., 440; 50 Id., 649; 65 Id., 201.

2. Where a senior mortgage was duly recorded within the time and in the manner prescribed by law, this record was, of itself, notice to a purchaser at a sile of the same property under a junior mortgage, unless he was misled into making it by the conduct of the mortgagee or his duly authorized agent, which induced him to conclude that the property was being sold free from the lien of the first mortgage. Otherwise the property could be sold subject to the lien of the first mortgage; and if, at the time of the sale, it had been and if, at the time of the sale, it had been foreclosed, the mortgagee could place his execution in the hands of the officer making the sale, cause the title unincumbered to be sold, and claim the proceeds arising from the sale, according to the date of his lien. Code, $1937.

(a.) The evidence in this case does not satisfactorily establish the fact that the person who,

it was claimed, was acting as the agent of the holder of the first mortgage at the sale was in factso.

3. The facts in evidence imperatively demand a verdict in favor of the defendant, and that in favor of the plaintiff is not only con-trary to the evidence, but is without evidence

A contract between the complainant and certain persons who claimed title to the premises to make complainant a quit-claim deed to the land in question was pertinent evidence to show that his entry was quiet and peaceable, and was made in good faith. Tumlin, trustee, et al. vs. Vanhorn. Receiving, from Muscogee. Contracts. Equity, Injunction and Receiver. Practice in Superior Court. Vendor and Purchaser. Practice in Supreme Court. (Before Judge Willis.)

Willis.)
Hall, J.-1. While it is the duty of courts to enforce contracts and protect the rights of parties arising from them, and while, upon sufficient legal or equitable grounds, they may relieve restriction contracts wat they have been cient legal or equitable grounds, they may relieve parties from contracts, yet they have no power to make them for parties, or, when deliberately made, to modify or change then in any material respect. Therefore, where a contract of sale contemplated only the holding of title by the vendor as security for the unpaid purchase of money, it was improper, on the hearing of an application for injunction and receiver, for the chancellor to require the defendant to give security for the forthcoming of the rentroctes taken from his temants and for the appropriation of the rents of the land to the payment of complainant's debt. 17 Ga., 77, 79;

27 Id., 569, 573.

2. The power of appointing receivers and ordering injunctions should be prudently and cautiously exercised, and, except in clear and urgent cases, should not be recorted to. Especially is this so where the party invoking the interposition of a court of chancery has a plain and adequate remedy at law by suit, garnishment and levy, for the protection and enforcement of the rights reserved to him under the contract.

ment of the rights reserved to him under the contract.

3. The conditions imposed by the order in this case were unusual and onerous. There was no adequate reason for enjoining the transfer of notes and other obligations given for tent, either where a receiver had been appointed to take charge of them, or where the parties had given security in the terms of the order to appropriate them to the complainant's debt. 70 Ga., 558.

4. Where a render sold land and gave a bond for title, reserving the title as security for the payment of the purchase money, and it did not appear that the purchase ron his cestui que hust were less solvent and able to pay than when it was contracted, or that any deterioration in the value of the land was caused by the waste and mismanagement of the persons to whem it was sold, the mere failure to pay an installment of the purchase money when dus, would not furnish a ground for injunction and receiver.

(a) This esse differs from that of Tufts us. Little, 56 Ga., 139.

5. This court decides only such questions as are made by the transcript of the record and bill of exceptions, and therefore will not consider a motion to dismiss the writ of error, on the ground that the clerk made a separate certificate that the chancellor's order requiring security to prevent the appointment of a receiver had been complied with, no bond accompanying such certificate, and it being sent up after the record was completed and transmitted to this court.

That is just what he does, and the world is none the wiser by the World's HENRY WARD BEECHER passed away yesterday morning, in the presence of his tamily and a few friends and relatives. His death was peaceful and calm, his spirit taking its flight as the great man slept. Thus died the most famous of American ministers, his struggle with death being marked with the same tranquility and ease which characterized the contentions of his eventful career. In the work of his life a lasting heritage is left the world, and in the heart of an admiring public his memory will be kept forever bright.

GREAT BRITAIN is making an earnest effort to wrest from the United States the trade which the latter has established with Asia, and which naturally belongs to us. From Victoria to the great trading ports of Asia it is two or three days quicker than from San Francisco, so that England can reach Asiatic ports over its own routes about five days quicker than by the transcontinental railways of the United States.

THE proposed trip of Senator Sherman through the south is supposed to have much political significance. The trip is from Washington to Charleston, thence through Florida to to Havana, where he will remain two weeks. On his return, Sherman will visit Savannah, Augusta, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Birmingham and Nashville. At the latter place he has made an appointment to speak, though it is supposed invitations will likewise be extended to him by the other cities. It is regarded in political circles in the north as a move upon the part of Sher-man to inaugurate his presidential campaign, setting the machinery in motion at the south in advance of Blaine. There will be about fifteen in the party, including other senators and their families.

RHODE ISLAND is a republican state not only as a whole, but in both its congressional districts. The majority of its citizens who are entitled to the suffrage believe that the constituency and principles of the republican party represent the better, more trus tworthy and intelligent governing power than those of the democratic party or any of the elements of organized or unorganized opposition, Providence Journal.

But how about those of the citizens of the little state who are not entitled to suffrage? No wonder the state is republican when its ballot is almost exclusively in the hands of the corporations, monopolies and money bags. A poor man is deprived of the born right of an American citizen, and must be content to look on while his more fortunate fellow be ings shape the policy of the goverment which he must aid in protecting and to which he looks for protection. Give the whole people the privilege of the ballot and then see what is the sentiment of the great majority of the

A FEW cranks are trying to inaugurate the anti-secret society crusade again. A convention has been called to meet in Chicago on the 30th instant, to forward the move, and strange to say, the names of the Rev. James McCosh, of Princeton college, and other prominent men of letters, are signed to the call. It is said that secret societies in general, and Freemasonry in particular, will be attacked from the pulpit and from the lecture platforms. A few ministers are leading in the matter, on the ground that Masonry is a religion of its own, in which the name of Christ is never mentioned. Again, they say that secrecy is antagonistic to republican principles and should not be tolerated in a republican government, as it tends to encourage incendiary teaching and foster treasonable conspiracy. In this ad-vanced age crankism seems to be the ruling spirit, and it is breaking out in every shape possible. It is growing worse every day, and if it progresses as it promises, the next century will deserve to be marked as the Age of Cranks.

The New Fast Mail.

The information of the re-establishment of the southern fast mail, conveyed in the telegram of our Washington correspondent, is very welcome news to this section. As THE CONSTITUTION has hinted, the fault of the whole matter has rested in the post-office department. Consequently, when the department deemed it necessary to remedy the trouble, it found the railroad people not only willing but anxious to accommodate their patrons. Immense railway subsidies have been paid by the department in the direction of expediting the mail service in that section, but it was not deemed good policy to make any effort to expedite the mails in this section, save in a little strip of country on the coast that starts in the Maryland salt marshes and runs to the jumping-off place in Florida.

The whole trouble was with some of our estcemed southern congressmen, who, with the idea of impressing their greatness on their simple-minded constituents, have made a scarecrow of the word "subsidy." These esteemed southern congressmen have been in the habit of making a tremendous fuss over this word whenever they wanted to attract attention, and the result is that they have kept the post-office department in a stew so far as fast mails are concerned.

Their idea seems to be that the people, instead of establishing the mail service for the public good, have organized it as a business investment for the purpose of making it pay dividends. The result is that every attempt to appropriate money for the purpose of paying railways and steamships a reasonable amount for carrying the mails is denounced on the score that it is a subsidy. There has been a recent fight on the sub sidy scare, but this fact has not frightened off the post-office department, and the result is a fast mail subsidy for the south which promises to be the most beneficial we have ever had.

Malicious Vitality.

Many a dying woman has rallied and renewed her lease of life when she heard that the snivelling husband at her bedside had another matrimonial alliance in view.

"I'll live to spite you!" cried the wife of one of England's proudest earls, when her husband bent over her dying couch and whispered the name of the woman he had selected to succeed her. And she did live, not long enough to defeat a second marriage, but long enough to make the earl regret his premature disclosure.

A case somewhat similar is reported from London. A man who had lived apart from his wife for some years was summoned to her in her dying moments. He waited until he saw her in the agony of what was undoubtedly her death struggle. Then he hastily left the room, and flew to an expectant sweetheart, who immediately accompanied him to the altar. Did the neglected and insulted wife feel a warning thrill that jostled the pulses and centers of life into angry action? She revived, and it was not until two hours after the wedding that she gave her last gasp.

The rash husband acted under an honest mistake, but that did not save him. The minions of the law rudely tore him from his blushing bride. He was arraigned in the felon's dock, and a verdict of guilty of bigamy was rendered in short order.

Hasty marriages are dangerous pitfalls for the unwary.

The Tax on Commercial Agents.

The decision of the United preme court on the drummers' tax case from Memphis, reported in our telegraphic columns yesterday, is very important. It affects the laws of a number of states in every part of the union, and these laws will have to be revised to fit the decision of the

The American policy of protection is so grounded in the minds and habits of the people of this country that they seem to proceed in that direction by instinct. The drummers' tax imposed in several states is in the nature of protection; but, as the American policy is also free trade between the states, the disposition to levy the tax is not permitted to stand.

There is a disposition on the part of every ousiness and commercial community to protect itself against the competition of every other community-just as it is the disposi tion of the American people to protect their industries against the fatal competition of those of foreign countries.

The decision of the supreme court is no along this particular line of free trade between the states, but the clause of the con stitution on which the decision is based is intended to prevent the people of the states from placing an embargo of any kind on the commerce of other states.

Progressive Orientals.

As a positive element of civilization it is impossible to place too high an estimate upon religion.

Now that western ideas are gradually winning their way to supremacy in the orient it s becoming more apparent every day that Christianity must accompany the change.

Recently two diplomats, one from China and one from Japan, met in London and discussed this very question. The Chinaman admitted the immeasureable superiority of European methods. The Japanese agreed with him, and said that China and Japan could not afford to remain without the results of western progress, but he thought that in adopting the new civilization its religion should be accepted along with it. Some opposition being made by the Chinaman the Japanese said that Japan had seriously thought of establishing Christianity as the religion of the state, not that his peo ple cared much about it, but because they felt that progress was identified with it. "Look at the Turks," he said: "they have availed themselves of all of the benefits they could derive from modern science. They have gunboats and ironclads and artillery, but yet they are losing ground every day. Science in this instance does not suffice to arrest national decay; and therefore I am forced to believe that the Turks have made the mistake of sticking to their religion instead of adopting that of the stronger race."

When the fact is borne in mind that this conversation took place between "epresente tives of China and Japan in the heart of London, it way well be said that moves. The final supremacy of Christianity, and its acceptance by all the people e earth may be regarded only as a question of MRS. WARNER BISHOP lectured on spiritual ism in Cincinnati the other night. That is, she started out to speak on that subject, but she "scattered" worse than an old fashioned shotgun. She denounced men whodrink, men who smoke, men who chew, and in fact, she denounced the male population generally. She kicked against the "he" government, fired into the "he" religion and tackled the "he" Bible. She wanted more "she" and less "he." At the close of the lecture she treated the audience to a lot of impromptu poetry, which she would grind out on any subject at a moment's notice. It is a pitiable spectacle when an ancient dame has to denounce the men and spout poetry for a living.

It is said the woman makes a living by fainting, having fits, and working the trance dodge. She has been at it for years and has been much trouble to hospitals. New York Commercial Advertiser: It is generally supposed that the democratic strength lies not in the west, but in the south and east, and that the south is agreeing with the east and disagreeing with the west, in regard to financial theories and considerations, more and more every day. The westerners have got into the habit, of late years, of arrogating to themselves all the power and wisdom of the nation and of the century. Herein they are somewhat in error. The east has some strength also, and the south is learning a thing or two now-a-days.

A STRANGE DREAM Narrated by Mr. N. J. Hammond, of Georgia.

From the New York Sun. "I had a strange dream the other night," said Representative Hammond, of Georgia, this morning, as he rode up to the capitol in a herdic with Representative Harmer, of Pennsylvania. "I dreamed," continued Mr. Hammond, who is one of the most thorough parliamentarians in the house and a fine lawyer, "that I was sitting in my seat in the house and the fittieth congress was being organized—a forcible illustration of the fact that dreams are contrary, as I will not be a member of dreams are contrary, as I will not be a member of that congress. A great flurry was going on over the election of a speaker. Mr. Carlisle was on the flor awaiting the formal election, he having been nominated unanimously in caucus. During the excitement some one got up in his seat, was recognized by the chair, and moved that Mr. Danforth be elected speaker. There was intense excitement over the nomination. But the motion was put and to the creat astonishment the motion was put, and to the great astonishmen of everybody he was elected without a dissenting voice. Nobody seemed to know who Mr. Danforth was, as no such man is elected to the fiftieth conress, and it took some time to find him. Finally he was found-a bashful little member who sa away out on the outside row of seats on our side of the house. When first found Mr. Danforth was so frightened he could not speak his name. Mills, of Texas, found him and escorted him to the chair A speech was called for and when Speaker Danforth attempted to thank the house he could not work his vocal organs. Words stuck in his mouth. I can see Mills holding him up to the work and coaching him like a young actor is prompted. Mills re-peated the words to the house, like an interpre-ter, as the speaker could not talk aloud. When the inaugural speech was de livered I became convinced that a great mistake had been made, and began to cudgel my brain to conjure a scheme for repairing the error. I got up and moved to reconsider the vote by which the honorable gentleman in the chair had been elected speaker, stating to the house that it was a a self-evident fact that it was only intended as a joke, which was true. To my utter astonishment the rocal properties of Speaker Danforth were instant ly restored to usefulness, and in a rich, round tone the declared the motion out of order, and entered upon the regular order. I was worried beyond measure, and was so sorry for Carlisle, who stood in the center of the floor transfixed, that I became ost wild, and awakened from my dream, to

POCAHONTAS WEATHERLY. Her Passion for a Man with Mutilated

From the Arkansas Traveller From the Arkansas Traveller.

The political ascendency of the cripple has, in some parts of the routh, become so unyielding that it is almost impossible for a sound man to get an office. So long, however, as the prestige of the cripple was confined to politics the public made no very loud complaint, but when the unsound man demanded social distinction and insisted upon the emotional privilege of leading the german, the young men who had bitherto been characterized by modesty of bearing went out on an uncompromising strike. The following incident, which has just been made public, shows the extremity to which the cripple tyranny has been shoved:

which the cripple tyranny has been showed:
Miss Pocahontas Weatherly, daughter of Jackson
B. Weatherly, who owns one of the largest stillhouses in the neighborhood of Cob Stopper, Ark, has for some time been regarded as the belle of the community. A few months ago Miss Pocahontas began to put on dresses, the length of which plain-ly indicated that she had entered the great market of life. Suitors flocked from all directious, but it was soon perceived that the most manly and vigorous among them was received with the least favor; and it was not long until the community was surprised by the announcement that Miss Pc-cahoutas had accepted the suit of Lit Smith, a fel-low who the year before, had become involved in a complication with a cotton gin and had retired with only one arm. Lit was uneducated and rather shiftless, and the engagement astonished the people; but a greater surprise was in store for them, when, several days later, it was announced that Miss Poca had discarded Lit, and had accepted a one-legged fellow named Jam Perdue. This freek on the part of the young lady might never have been understood had it not been for the dis-covery of the following letter which she wrote to

"My Dear: I did not know how little I thought of Lit until I saw you. Ah, the accomplishment of one arm is but little in comparison to the achievement of one leg. Of course I will marry you, as you are more in need of me than Lit is."

While the public was reading this letter, there came the startling announcement that Jam had been thrown aside, and that a fellow named Shad Bly had been accepted. Bly had lost one leg and one arm. The young lady, in writing to him, de-clared that he was almost perfect. "Oh," she went on, "you are charmingly crippled, and until I met you I did not know what duty was." While she was writing the letter several men carrying a hand barrow entered the room. They put down the bar-row and revealed a man who had lost both legs, both arms, both ears and both eyes—a man who could not hear, or smell or talk—a man who with all his other marks of distinction was para-lyzed and who was also in a beastly state of intox-ication. Miss Pocahontas tore Bly's photograph and embraced her new lover.

As it is impossible to find a man who is worse off mentally and physically, it is thought the marriage will soon be celebrated. The prospective bridge-groom undoubtedly has a future, for his condition renders it impossible to beat him for any political position to which he may aspire. BISHOP AND THE MAORI.

The Mind Reader Before the Maori From Harper's Magazine. Mr. Bishop is authority for the statement that while in New Zealand the king of the Maoris was so desirous of viewing an exhibition of his unusual powers that he obtained a private seance. After some prileying it was decided that his dusky highness himself should conceal an article which Bishop was to discover. Mr. Bishop was taken from the room, and on the Maori king signi-fying his readiness the mind reader was brought blindfolded into the kingly presence and at once began the search. In a few minutes Mr. Bishor turned to the monarch's mouth as the place where the article was concealed. His highness grunted an emphatic dissent to the place located by the professor as containing the article for which he was in search. Bishop insisted that it was there and finally demanded that the royal mouth should be opened wide. After considerable refusal and persevering persistence on the part of the king and the professor the mouth was slowly and reluctantly opened. The next instant, however, the king began to cough violently, which resulted in a but being expelled. The king, finding the place had been correctly located, attempted to swallow the button, and thus defeat the determined mind reader. What might have happened to Bishop had the Maoris lost their king is one of those things we

From the Brooklyn Citizen. His influence upon the religious thought of the world must have been enormous. The breadth and heartiness of his hberalism, the audacity which tore off the integuments in which usage and ignorance had enwrapped the religious idea, and generate and surveyed the religious dea, the brilliant genius with which he vitalized old truths and presented them in forms adapted to modern habits of thought; the amazing command of oratory which communicated them, marked a new era in religious belief. He strode through the formulæ of mediæval ecclesiasticism the formulæ of mediæval ecclesiasticism like a giant through the cobwebs that festoon the meadows in the morning, but what he stripped away he more than compensated for. The crude conceptions of religious dogma, with their half pagan and often barbaric imagery, gave place in the minds of the generation that heard him to new and gentler schemes of the human and divine relaand gentier schemes of the human and divine relation. Christianity was not a creed, as he taught it, but a mode of life warm and throbbing. The devils of the middle ages he ruthlessly banished from the pantheon, and in their place beatitudes found welcome lodgment. Upon the growing generation of theologians the influence of Mr. Beecher's powerful originality was tonic in the extreme. They

They learned that Christianity was a religion of love, not of terror. The mind that revolted at African slavery refused to countenance theological servitude, and in both movements he was the typical abolitionist. Echoes of his thought are sounding throughout the country today, voiced by men to whem, perhaps, no thought of their obligation to him ever presented itself.

When music mothered every sound,
When up and down youth's happy ways
Fared glories on eternal round?
Has chill of years killed every jor
That blossomed for the wondering boy?

These are the trees once known so well
We felt to them all but beknown;
Their very shadow we could tell
From others by the forest thrown.
The same glad songs from bush and boughAs once we heard, we hear them now. And these sweet flowers beneath my feet.

BROUGHT TO A HEAD.

THE WEST POINT TERMINAL AND rrett Offers to Vacate for Sixteen Million Dolla Brice and Sully Willing to Pay it, but John H. Inman Opposed to it—The New Deal in Frogress—Particulars of the Deal,

NEW YORK, March 8 .- [Special.]-Negotiations between the Baltimore and Ohio and the Terminal people were brought to a head today. Mr. Garrett offered the Terminal the controlling interest for sixteen million dollars. The Buice-Sally party regard the offer favorably, but the more conservative Terminal directors, including John H. Inman, do not see their way clear to recommend such a purchase, and it is not now probable that anything will come of it, It is rumored this evening, however, that a syndicate of private parties is being formed to make the purchase, and afterwards making some combination or consolidation with the Jersey Central, and thereby securing entrance to New York. Gould is said to be one of this syndicate, with a view to absorbing the Baltimore and Ohio telegraph company, and thereby destroying the Western Union's rival. Withdrawing from the Pools, CHICAGO, March 8 .- The Illinois Central Railroad company gave notice today of its with-drawal from all pools. This action affects all west-ern, southwestern and northwestern pools, and its supposed to mean a hurried collapse of all combinations and that the roads will be compelled to take independent action in reference to an ob-servance of the interstate law.

ARRESTING A SHERIFF. A Lively Scene on a North Carolina Railroad Train.

ASHEVILLE, N.C., March 8.—[Special.]—Excitement has prevailed here for the last day or two over the arrest and trial of Sheriff J. E. Connor, of Chattanooga, Tenn. A fugitive from Tennessee, one Charles Goodlake by name, was not long since arrested on Connor's affidavit and identification. Conner yesterday boarded the train with his prisoner after four trips to this place, and after having seen his prisoner, held him under writ of habeas corpus prisoner, held him under writ of habeas corpus for several times before serving. Before reaching Marshall, the sheriff heard that a writ of habeas corpus had been issued for him, and leaving his prisoner in the custody of his deputies, he exchanged clothing with the fireman of his engine. At Marshall Sheriff Chandley, of Madison, boarded the train and demanded the prisoner. This the train and demanded the prisoner. officer being inexperienced supposed the write must be served on the prisoner. Quite a scene must be served on the prisoner. Quite a scene occurred. Half dozen deputies were guarding the prisoner and half a dozen were with the sheriff, and in a moment that number of pistols were seen glistening in the lamp light. The councel for the prisoner being on board the train, reminded the fresh sheriff that the writ must be served on the person to whom it was addressed, J. E. Conner, sheriff of Hamilton county, Tenn. Sheriff Chandley failed to find Conner, and the train moved off bearing all the officers. About the time the train reached the next station, Chandley heard where Conner was. By the time he was enabled to reach the cab, however, the crafty sheriff had been landed into his own state. This case has caused much excitement, and is not yet ended.

LIABILITY FOR MESSAGES. An Important Telegraph Suit in Nashville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 8.—[Special.]—The supreme court this morning decided an important question concerning the liability of important question concerning the liability of the telegraph company for negligence in trans-mitting a message, in the case of Thos. Marr vs. Western Union telegraph company. Marr seut a message to New York to an agent there to buy I.600 shares of Memphis and Charleston-stock. The message was sent to buy 100 shares. The stock was on the increase, and when he found out the error the difference in market value amounted to $1,125. Marr did not send another message to buy enough stock to make out 1,000 shares until the stock had advanced sufficiently to make the difference in market value amount to about $3,000. Judge Lurton, in behalf of the court, delivered a very elab-orate opinion, in which he held that while the telegraph company is not a common carrier so as to be insured, it is held to a great degree of liability, and is liable for negligence in the travemission of a message. The conditions and contract that are mentioned in the blank messages of the telegraph company are not binding on the sender of messages, as the telegraph company cannot contract against their own negligence. It was further held that Marr own negligence. It was further held that Marr could only recover the difference in market value between the time of sending the message and the time he found out the error.

A Touch of the Blizzard.

From the Camilla, Ga., Clarion. On Saturday night the blizzard which has been freezing the northwest gave us a touch of its whip and a sharp north wind blew all day Sunday, keeping up a stiff breeze through the night. Mon-day morning ice was seen in places. Tuesday morn-ing abundant frost greeted the early riser and with bright sunshine March came in like a playful lamb. Some melon growers had got ahead of the season and had plants up. Those with beans, cucumbers and the like, unless well protected, must have suffered great damage. This is the proper time to plant corn in this section and the farmers are hard at work. War or no war in Europe, it is to be hoped that a large crop will be planted.

Our oldest citizens say that the rain last Saturday evening was the heaviest that ever visited Lincolnton or fell in Lincoln county. It lasted only about five or ten minutes, but in that short time the streets were flooded and every little gully was an embryo Nigagra. Old Eolus played an accompaniment, and it was feared at one time that they would get up an amateur cyclone. But the clouds rolled by and left Boreas to usher in March with his usual bluster.

Mr. Warde is a great artist who can hold an audience with the slenderest thread of acting, and when he depacts the feeble old man aroused, launching the curse of Rome, defending his ward himself, his beloved France, and electrifying the audience and making the very walls themselves shake as he did last night, we feel safe in saving that he is second to none.

THE MILD-EYED JERSEYS. Sale of the Celebrated "Hilldale Herd of Cattle This Morning. This morning, at ten o'clock, the auction sale of the "Hilldale" herd of cattle, owned by Messrs. L. J. and A. W. Hill, will take place at the stable of F. M. Stewart, No. 24 West Alabama street, and there will be no postponement on account of the weather. This herd, which is composed of ninety head, is unquestionably one of the finest in the south, and the opportunity afforded to secure a choice animal will undoubtedly be gladly accepted by many.

The herd was driven from "Hilldale," the farm of the Messrs. Hill, to the place of sale, yesterday afternoon, and attracted a great deal of attention as it moved through the streets. The animals are superb specimens of this famous breed, and in form, color and general beauty show all the principal features for which they are noted. The comments overheard as they passed down whitehall and Forsyth streets were very enthusisatic, and few saw them who did rot violate the commandment not to covet. But aside from their heavity and perfect symmetry they are noted as being of one of the best milk and butter strains in the country extending back or a number of years. The records of some of the cows in the herd and their maternal ancestors are remarkable, but they are fully authenticated. Ladies as well as gentlemen are invited to attedd the sale today, which will be conducted by Mr. A. F. SELLING INFORMATION. English Navy Yard Officials Dismissed for Divulging Secrets. LONDON, March 8.—A sensation has been caused at Chatham by the suspension of a foreman employed in the government works there. It is alleged that the man has been guilty of revealing important naval designs to the Uni-ted States and Russian governments.

It has been accertained that the dismissed employe was foreman of the construction de-partment in the navy yard at Chatham. He is charge1 with giving foreigners details of modern improvements in torpedoes and other naval devices adopted by the British government. Suspicion was excited against the accused by the fact that certain foreign scientific journals printed articles commenting on innovations in the English navy and gave information concerning them, supposed to be in the exclusive possession of the admiralty, and especially by the fact that au American journal printed the exact wording of a confidential specification for the manufacture of a new torpedo appliance still in the modern improvements in torpedoes and other a condential specification for the manufac-ture of a new torpedo appliance still in the draughtsman's office pending approval. A draughtsman named Terry, employed at the Chatham dockyard, has also been publicly dis-missed for selling information. The army estimates, which have just been issued, amount to £18,393,900, being an in-crease of £160,700.

ARCHBISHOP CROKE'S ATTITUDE. He Trusts to Constitutional Agitation for Restoring Ireland's Rights. DUBLIN, March 8.—Archbishop Croke has written to the papers an explanation of his attitude on the rent question. He says he has proposed nothing, nor has he made any recommendation, relative to taxes. He has simommendation, relative to taxes. He has simply expressed an opinion concerning the relative value of the no tax manifesto and the no rent manifesto. He states that it never entered his head to recommend a general uprising against the payment of taxes. He would trust alone to consitutional agitation for a restoration of national rights in Ireland. Under the existing conditions, only a knave or fool, he declares, would trust otherwise. It is believed that the action of Archbishop Croke, in offering this explanation, is a result of pressure from the pope.

A CALLING YOKE.

Newfoundland Reported to be on the Verge OTTAWA, Ont., March 8.—Advices from New-British government in forwarding the bait bill for imperial assent, the legislature of that colony is determined not to be trampled upon by the queen o: by any in authority under her. The text of the address of the legislature of Newfoundland to the imperial government shows that the island is g eatly excited. It says in effect that Newfound-imperial government shows that the island is geatly excited. It says in effect that Newfound-land will not submit to the situation.

The address goes on to say: "We must decline respectfully to accept the view that the French or any other foreign power has a status or consultative claim in the control or disposition of our propety, and we humbly demur to any recognition of their pretentions in this respect. We acknowledge no authority but that of the imperial government, and their rights of dominion are wisely limited by our consistational powers, which secures for us the free exercise of our instructed intelligence in the management of our local affairs."

The same advices state that the colony is on the verge of an open rebellion, and that little encouragement would be required to cause a general uprising against the yoke of British connection, which, they claim, bears heavily upon them.

Private d spatches received here state that a strong sentiment favoring annexation to the United States is spreading throughout the province, which is likely to give serious trouble unless the British government yields in granting the demand the provisional government is now making.

"We Congratulyte Him."

From the Watkinsville, Ga., Enterprise, The many friends of Mr. Ed. Dobbins, who lives only a few miles of this place, and sonin-law of the late James Mayne, deceased, will be glad to hear of his recent good fortune. By the death of his grandfather, Mr. Felker, who died recently near Monroe, he became heir to a $15,000 estate. Mr. Dobbins is a worthy young man and we congratulate him in his good fortune.

A clergyman writes as follows:
No. 18 McCallum Street, No. 18 McCallum Street,
KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 11th, '86.
Wine of Life Company, Atlanta, Ga: Fortwenty years I have been afflicted with Organic Heart Disease. By a mere accident I got hold of and used a part of one bottle of Vinum Vitse or Wine of Life. It acted upon me like a charm, and gave me almost instantaneous relief. It relieved me of those dreadful smothering sensations occasioned by enfeebled smothering sensations occasioned by enfeebled action of the heart. It gave tone, vigor and regularity to this vital organ. I believe Wine regularity to this vital organ. I believe Wine of Life is truly a specific for this dreadful disease, and will cure any curable case of heart affection.

Respectfully, REV. J. W. NELSON. What an Atlanta lady says of Wine of Life.

Wine of Life Company:

Gentlemen—It affords me great pleasure to give you an account of my experience with your valuable preparation, Wine of Life. For six months I have suffered with constipation, pains in head, back and lower extremities, and profuse leucorrhees. My monthly sickness ceased to make its appearance, and I felt like a complete wreck. While in this situation I was treated by a prominent physician in this city. He gave me no relief. About three weeks ago I changed physicians—the second physician at one prescribed Wine of Life. After taking two bottles I find myself a new woman—pains al gone, my monthly sickness re-established, and no signs of leucorrhees. I am thankful for this wonderful restoration of my health.

Very respectfully

MRS.

Another minister writes:
Wine of Life Company, Atlants, Ga.:
Gentlemen—I have been a sufferer with Asthms with more orless congestion of liver and palpitation of the heart since 1881. Have tried all mediciones and remedies heard of or suggested during that time I have found none that did me so much good or af forded me so much relief as one 8 ounce bottle o Wine of Life. It relieved me quickly. It is pleas ant to take, and enables me to expectorate freely and sleep well at night, and from taking one bottle of Wine of Life I find myself after two weeks a new man. I believe a half dozen bottles of Wine of Life would permanently cure the worst case of asthms liver trouble or palpitation that can be found.
cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers from trou

NEW YORK STOCKS. Stocks as Reported at the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, March 8.—Rumors affecting the Baltimore and Ohio, Western Union and Jersey Central, kichmond and West Point and Reading were amplified today, taking several different shapes and were the principal topics of conversa-tion, and occupied the attention of the street to the exclusion of almost everything clse. Except for stocks above mentioned the market pos sessed little interest, being dull and barely steady, with fluctuations for the most part confined within a very narrow range. The confident feeling still exists and the market showed a strong undertone throughout the day, with some evidence of a broad-ening tendency. Western Union was again a leader of speculation and scored a further mate-rial advance. Considerable realizations, however, late in the day, neutralized the greater portion of the gains made. The sharpest movement was in Jersey Central, which at one time showed an ad-vance of nearly 2 per cent, the principal cause for which was the calling of a large amount of loaned stock, and as high as $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent per d em was paid for the use of stock. The other coalers felt the stimulating effects of rumors circulated and Reading and Lackawanna were specially prominent. Richmond and West Point was comparatively dull and free from excitement. Northwestern dis-played considerable activity, but its fluothations were unimportant throughout the day. The opening was generally firm to strong, first prices show ing advances over last evening from % to % per cent. Western Union and Jersey Central became the features immediately, both advancing about 1 per cent, while the remainder were barely firm. The market became dull after the first hour and with almost no movement in prices, and so continued until ahout 1 p. m. Coal-ers then became prominent by reason of their activity and strength, and continued to advance until well into the last hour, the general market responding feebly. Extensive realizations then ragged the list off, and though the market closed on a raily it was rather heavy. The sales for the day aggregated 321,000 shares. Closing prices show irregular changes, generally for small fractions

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Produce.

cial to The Constitution. CHICAGO, March 8—Speculation in wheat, which has been steadily increasing for a week past, leaped all bounds today, and the scene in picturing both sessions wastvery wild. There was a continuation of the upward movement from the start, the first sales for May delivery being made at 83½c, or ½c higher than last night's clesing, followed by a quick advance to 84¾c, with free buying all the way up. This was followed by a sharp decline to 83¾c, followed by a sharp decline to 83¼c, followed by a sharp decline to 83½c, followed by a followed by a sharp decline to 83½c, followed by a sharp decline to 83½c, followed by a sharp decline to 83½c, followed by a sharp decline to 83 lowed by another upward movement, which was not stayed until.86c had been touched. The deal-ing was confined almost to May delivery, the other options being neglected, and outward evidences were such that a squeeze in that month was to be attempted. The excitement in the pit during the advance was very great. The shorts were thoroughly alarmed, and the short interest is now ac knowledged to be so large that this advance of 8360 from the low prices current last week meant tre-mendous profits, and consequent large losses among speculators. It was conceded that the bull leaders who could push wheat in the face of heavy selling and generally bearish tone of the market for months, must be powerful and well equipped for the fight. The advance of May from 83% to 86c was almost instantaneous. Opinions as to the power under the advance were as many almost as operators in the pit. After the top was touched, and even before it, there was heavy selling by some of the powers identified with the bull side. The market sold off to 85%c and closed there at one o'clock. In the afternoon May rose again to 85½ but offerings suddenly grew to be very large and for some time the market was but one remove from a panic. May started in apparently strong but immediately began breating under erroneous offerings and dropped by 14 to 8334c. There was a combined solid rush to sell out. If a broker could not get what he wanted for it he took what he could get; around 8%c the feeling became rteadler and prices recovered to $4\foraller e hally closing at $4\foraller e. Everything except wheat was entirely neglected, the market, notwithstanding the violent flunctuations, closed ic higher than last night. On the curb, late in the afternoon, the price was 84%c. There is a very broad suspicion that moneyed cominations contemplates a squeze in wheat, but the interesting problem for the speculator to decide now is, who is under wheat. The truth, probably, will be found that there are a number of cliques under it. There are Cincinnati, San Francisco, New York and Chicago cliques under differen sections of it. May and June were quoted at the same figures at the opening but May, at one time commanded a premium of 1%c over June, but this was reduced to 76c at the close. The best prices in corn were had early when May was 40%, later it got down to 39%, but toward the close recovered a little from this figure, selling at 40%. There were no special features in the market; pretty much all hog products developed into a slow and featort of a deal, but the prices were firm and made little advance.

THE GEORGIA CROPS.

COMMISSIONER HENDERSON ON THE CROP PROSPECTS.

The Fruit Crops Escape Material Injury up to the Freeent Time-A Reavy Spring Seeding of Small Grain-Further Experiments to be Made in Tobacco Culture, Etc.

"Have you had any information recently as to the crop prospects of Georgia?" was asked of Judge Henderson, the commissioner of agriculture, last evening.
"None that are official," was the reply. "We do not begin the collection of data from which to prepare our crop report until April, and the report is not issued until early in the following month. I have learned from private sources however, sufficient to assure me that up to the present time the fruit crop has not been materially injured. Of course, it is too early in the season to form much of an idea of what the crop will be, for the reason that we are not sure of not having some killing frosts; but should we escape them the prospects are altogether flattering. Compared with last year, the indications are far more favorable."

"What is the outlook in the line of small grain?" was asked.

"I cannot state with any certainty as to the area sown to wheat or oats. That can only come from thorough reports throughout the come from thorough reports throughout the state, but so far as my information extends, the spring seeding will be heavy. The tendency is to go back to first principles. In my boyhood days, nearly all sowing of oats was in the spring, and the frequent failures that have been made by those who have attempted their winter sowing have heartly discouraged them, and their example is discouraging to others. The production made from the spring sowing is not as heavy as when the seed is put into the ground earlier, but on the whole, in view of the frequent failures, the amount harvested will, in my opinion, he as satisfactory as formerly. I have been of the opinion, and still entertain it, that, the opinion, and still entertain it, that owing to the numerous failures that have befallen the farmers hertofore, on the ground that it is an ill wind that never changes, that we may ressonably expect an abundant har-vest of small grains for the ensuing year. I desire at an early day, to say to the people of Georgia, in my official capacity, that in my opinion it would be unwise in them to plant as arge an area to cotton as has been the case in past years. Overproduction is largely the cause of the low prices, and I should recommend a system of diversification as one way of breaking the all cotton habit."

"What was the success attending the experiments in tobacco culture, last year?" the reporter inquired.

"That success has been determined only by the fact that it has started up two tobacco factories, one in Atlanta and the other in north Georgia. Further than this I will state that from the reports received, and they were quite numerous, it was shown that the profits from this source far exceeded those from cotton. While I am satisfied that to raise tobacco on a very large scale would not give corresponding results as when raised on a more limited scale, yet I believe the prices will still be sufficient to justify the planter in expecting to realize

"Has there been much demand for tobacco "The demand has not only been very heavy but it comes from every section in the state; in fact, there are very few counties from which applications have not been received, and for this reason the experiments this year will certainly be more satisfactory than those of last, so far as testing the adaptability of the country to tobacco growing is concerned.

"I think a new cereal might be introduced in Georgia," continued the commissioner, "and that is buckwheat, and if it were not too late I would distribute some of the seed this year. When an opportunity to procure the seed is had, I think it would be wise for the farmers to post themselves regarding its culture and make an experiment. My attention has been called to the matter by several gentlemen who are well qualified to advise, and they express a desire that I may use what influence I possess to induce the people of Georgia to experiment with it."

DUDLEY YOUNGRLOOD EXPELLED. The Action of the Board of Education Yes-

The Action of the Board of Education Yesterday.

The board of education met yesterday evening in the office of Superintendent Slaton, to act upon the report of the grievance committee in the high school matter.

There were present: Vice-President Hemphill and Messrs. Blanchard, Mayer, Glenn, Smith, Rawson, Moran, Cooper, Beatic and Lowry. From the report of the committee it was developed that two charges crossed each other. The first was by Professor Bass, who asked that Dudley Youngblood be expelled from school. The second was from Mr. A. P. Youngblood, the father of Dudley, asking that Professor Bass be dismissed.

Youngblood, the father of Dudley, asking that Professor Bass be dismissed.

The evidence taken was to the effect that one day last week ten boys had missed their algebra lessons. They were instructed to work them out at home, and to return the result next day. In class the next day it was found that there was one paper missing. Professor Bass asked thrice as to who the delinfound that there was one paper missing. Professor Bass asked thrice as to who the delinquent was, without answer. Then he queried the boys separately, Dudley Youngblood for the first time acknowledging that he was the one at fault, giving as excuse that he had forgotten about the matter. Then it was that Professor Bass sid: "When a boy is asked a question and fails to answer, I do not know how else to characterize it than as a lie."

At recess Dudly Youngblood asked Professor Bass if he meant to call him a liar. "I meant to characterize your conduct as untruthful," replied the professor. Thereupon hostilities began. During the fight a knife was observed in Dud ley's hand. That knife had been given to him by Zed Harrison.

The committee found that Youngblood had made the attack according to Professor Bass's version, and that he had merited expulsion therefor. It also found that Professor Bass's version, and that he had merited expulsion therefor. It also found that Professor Bass was not justfied in using the word "lie" eyen in its corrective sense; but highly commended his courage in maintaining his authority in the schoolroom. While rendering the decision the committee specially mentioned the fact that Youngblood's previous deportment had always been of the best, a statement borne out by Professor Bass himself.

committee specially mentioned the fact that Youngblood's previous deportment had always been of the best, a statement borne out by Professor Bass himself.

The report was, after some discussion, manimously adopted, and Superintendent Slaton was instructed to make a proper statement of the result in the high school.

The committee on grisyances asked for now.

The committee on grievances asked for power to make still further inquiries into the fact as to how the knife was furnished to Young-blood, the impression being that there were others who needed attention. This power was A FALSE REPORT.

A few days ago a Macon paper published a statement to the effect that a fight had occurred at the Girls' High school between two young ladies.

The statement did great injustice to the school and to the young ladies who are being educated there.

There was no such occurrence at the high school as the Macon paper describes. The young ladies have been at peace among themselves and with their teachers, and the school is in a happy and prosperous condition.

The only basis for the story as published was in the fact that at Crew street grammar school two little girls fell out while at play, and one's face was scratched and the other's hair was pulled.

THE MOONSHINERS.

JUDGE NEWMAN STRIKES TERROR TO THEIR HEARTS.

In passing sentence upon Austin Bruce yes-terday, and Elijah Rogers on Monday, Judge Newman merely intimated that he intended to be much more severe upon distillers than he was last term, and there is much quaking in the boots worn by moonshiners because of this.

Judge McCay's kindness of heart induced him to be very lenient with offenders against the revenue laws, and the result was that he was not very greatly feared by them. But when Judge Newman ascended the federal bench it was very soon seen that he intended to pursue a different policy. His refusal to suspend any ers, who had been in the habit of getting a ers, who had been in the hand of getting a free ride to Atlanta, and after feeding for a few days at the Fulton county boarding house, would go before the court, and after receiving an almonition, get released on a suspended sentence.

Judge Newman's policy was that infractions of the law should be punished, and his opinion the law should be punished, and his opinion was that the courts had no right to suspend sentences. When this fact became known in blockade whisky circles it created something of a consternation, and a trip to Atlanta was not as agreeable to contemplate as it had been.

sentences was not at all relished by the offend-lanta was not as agreeable to contemplate as it had been.

On Monday morning, when court convened, there was a great array of defendants present with their witnesses. The case of Elijah Rogers, an old offender, being called, he pleaded guilty to the charge of distilling, and when Judge Newman sentenced him to eight months imprisonment and to pay a fine of $100, the whole equivalent to nine months imprisonment, it struck terror to their hearts. The effect of this was seen later in the day when the bonds in seven cases were forfeited. It is a well known fact that some of these parties who forfeited their bonds were present in court forfeited their bonds were present in court earlier in the day, and the supposition is that they were frightened away by this heavy sen-tence. Yesterday five more bonds were for-

As Judge Newman has very plainly stated that parties who are brought before him the second time will be made to feel the weight of second time will be made to feel the weight of the law, and has once or twice made significant allusions to the Albany penitentiary, the business of moonshining in Georgia is losing its attractiveness.

The fact of the matter is that Judge Newman is not going to trifle with this question, and the illicit distillers of Georgia will find this to be true if they continue in the business. He not only views this as a question of law, but he believes that the enforcement for the law will be to the interest of the moonshiner and his family, interest of the moonshiper and his family, as it will eventually step violations and make it necessary for their support to engahe in a legit-imate and what is believed would be a more imate and what is believed would be a more lucrative business.

It is proper to state that Judge Newman is making a wide distinction in the two principal grades of offenses against the revenue laws—carrying on the business of a distiller and working in a distillery. The former offense is generally committed by men of intelligence who have the means to set up their distilleries and operate them—men who, in the opinion of the judge, ought to know better and should therefore be held to a higher degree of respossibility than the men who work for them. These latter, as a rule, are of the lowest class of white people or ignorant negroes who, for a trifling compensation, can be induced to do the work. The difference in their stations, and the wide variance in their degree of responsibility, will readily be seen.

ATLANTA'S NEW SUBURB.

A Negro Town to be Built Just Beyond the City Limits. Atlanta is soon to have a new and important

It is altogether probable that before the present year closes there will be an incorporated negro village just beyond the southern confines of the city. The plan of the town has already been drawn. It is situated out Pryor street, near the Clark university, and is only a few hundred yards beyond the city limits. The town has been sur-veyed, the lots marked off and the streets laid out. veyed, the lots marked off and the streets laid out. All that is necessary to make it a genuine town is for these vacant lots to be built up. Already a number of modest habitations have been erected. Other dwellings will spring up rapidly within the next six months. The town, when built, will be the most unique town in the United States. It will be literally a negro town. Its mayor will be a colored man. The members of its municipal council will be colored. In fact all the corporation functionaries will be of dark complexion.

Some months ago the idea of starting this village occurred to Mr. Campbell Wallace, Jr.

Some months ago the idea of starting this village occurred to Mr. Campbell Wallace, Jr., who is possessed of large landed interests in that neighborhood. He owned a tract consisting of 59 acres of good land adjacent to the Clark university. He was desirous of disposing of this land and he conceived the idea of dividing it off into about 250 building lots and selling these on very easy terms to negroes. In order to carry out his project he organized the South Atlanta land and improvement company, which was duly chartered only a few weeks ago. Colonel A. E. Buck was elected president and Mr. Campbell Wallace, Jr., was chosen secretary and treasurer. Professor Brown, of Clark's university, was made'the general manager. The company immediately went to work. The land was surveyed, the lots divided off, and it was announced that building sites would be sold to colored people at reasonable prices and on exceedingly easy terms, It was agreed that purchasers should be given from two to four years in which to pay for the land. It was further arranged that buyers of the lots could have such houses as they preferred erected by the company. These houses to be sold at actual cost, and the purchaser to be allowed time. Of course, it was arranged that interest should be required. As soon as the enterprise assumed shape and became known to the colored people, there sprang up a lively demand for building lots. Thus far all the purchasers are well-to-do respectable colored people. The company will sell lots only to a decent class of negroes. The projectors of the scheme are highly encouraged, and expect to dispose of all the lots before the end of the year.

Louis James and Miss Wainwright.

Louis James and Miss Wainwright, We cannot recommend too earnestly to our readers the fine performance which these two eminent stars will present in Atlanta next Friday and Saturday. These performances will be of the high-est standard, and we append here the testimonial of the Louisville Courier in proof of it. We be-lieve that a higher praise was never bestowed upon any artists.

of the Louisville Courier in proof of it. We believe that a higher praise was never bestowed upon any artists:

It is very late in the day for an ordinary dramatic writer to impose a dissection of the play of "Hamlet" upon a newspaper public, but it is never too late to say an earnest word of praise for as thorough an actor as Louis James. He presented at Macauley's theater last night a wholly admirable Hamlet complete in every essential requirement, It was a characterization so simple, so consistent and so true, and was handled with such consummate intellectual skill, that one had to pause in running over the list of great Hamlets to find a greater. At no point was the audience left in doubt as to the conception of the part. There was no rustiness, no dubious coloring, no uncertain gesture or inflection. The character was limned with bold but sure strokes.

Miss Marie Wain wright is so excellent in all she does that her Ophelia could not have been other than satisfactory. She has a marvelous gift of being the character she portrays. She invested her parting with Hamlet with a world of pathos and desolate. This beautiful creation of the poet's brain was lilumined by the ineffable charm of her delicate art.

"Who is he?" asked a Constitution reporter.

"His name is Norris—that's enough, ain's it? "Oh, yes; I had nearly forgotten what I had started to say," said Mr. Ryan, throwing his cap back on his head. "Norris's brother was a major in the confederate army and led the boys many a gallant charge. Just before the war closed he was in a yankee prison in Washington, D. C. In the same prison were soldiers from Virginia, Tennesseo, both the Carolinas, Georgia and other states over which the stars and habit of congregating, and sections of the camp were known after the name of the state from which the soldiers came. Well, while the major was in prison, President Lincoln was assassinated, and for a time it looked as though the people in the federal capital would take revenge on the prisoners. Some how a series of resolutions expressing regret at the president's death got started in the prison. The officers from the various states considered the resolutions and adopted them. Finally they came to the Georgia department, and when the officers met and indorsed them the major was present. When it came his time to sign his name, he declined the profered pen, saying: "I am a prisoner, and have no volce in this government, and my name will do no good. Therefore I decline to sign the paper."

"The paper went the rounds, and when it passed out of camp it carried with it the signatures of every efficer in the camp, except that major's."

Austin Bruce entered a plea of guilty to the charge of distilling and working. The court took into consideration the fact that he had been guilty of previous violations of the law and sentenced him to eight months imprisonment and to pay a fine of $100.

William Jasper English, who hails from the mountains of Rabun county, was pronounced by the jury guilty of having fillicity manufacted corn whisky, and he will board for the succeeding six months at the Fulton county jail.

Negro Woman Raises a Row Near the Ice Mill-

Nettie Shields, a negro woman who lives near the ice mill on Alabama street, raised a big racket yesterday afternoon in that section of the city, and will appear in police court tomorrow morning to answer the charge of disorderly conduct. The woman has been renting a house from Mrs. Allbright, and recently has fallen behind with her rent. Yesterday a bailiff armed with the necessary papers, called upon the woman and demanded the amount of the rent past due on the house. The woman declined to pay up and refused to move out, and then not satisfied with that abused the balliff roundly and threatened to whip him. The woman's tongue appeared to be hung on a pivot, and everybody for blocks around heard the noise. Patrolinen Abbott and Moncrief, who were in the neighborhood, heard the racket, and responding to a call arrested her. The woman was condacted to police headquarters and was subsequently released on bond.

FOR STEALING A DRESS.

During the mouth of June last a thief entered Mrs. Craig's residence on Pryor street, and stole a fine dress. The theft was reported at police head-quarters immediately after it was discovered, and in a few days it was generally known among the members of the force that a negro woman known as Nancy Turner had committed the theft. The woman in some way ascertained that she was suspected and managed to keep out of reach of the department. Yesterday afternoon Patrolmen Holland and McGee ran upon her, and in a short time she was behind the bars. Immediately after the woman was arrested a warrant charging her with larceny was sworn out and she was taken be fore Judge fanner for preliminary trial. The evidence against the woman was sufficient to induce the judge to require a bond for her appearance. She succeeded in giving bond and was released.

A CHICKEN COOP ROBBED.

Night before last thieves entered Mr. T. C. Curry's premises, on Williams street, near Pine, and breaking open the chicken coop, carried away twelve large, fine chickens. Mr. Curry has a large victious dog which has always been sufficient guard against thieves, but before the thieves entered the place they managed to coax the dog outside the lot. They then made friends with him, and yesterday morning Mr. Curry found him chained to a tree in the yard, A CHICKEN COOP ROBBED

THIEVES GO THROUGH A HOUSE. Mrs. C. F. Cauley, who resides on King street, in the rear of the second ward, had a call from burglars night before last. Sometime during the night glars night before last. Some time during the night burglars succeeded in hoisting one of the parlor windows, through which they entered the house. They then went leisurely from room to room until they had gone through the entire house, and that, too, without arousing anyone. Early yesterday morning when Mrs. Cauley arose she found the window up and at once instituted an investigation, during which she discovered that a clock, a pair of vases, a coat and vest and a purse containing three or four dollars had been taken away.

WANTED TO GET HURT. WANTED TO GET HUET.

Tom Smith, a small negro boy, was given a cell in the city prison yesterday afternoon by J. R. Thompson, the railroad watchman at the Loyd street crossing. When arrested the boy was stealing a ride on the steps of a passenger coach. He was swinging on and off every few feet and was running a risk of being hurt every second. He was booked for jumping on and off trains while in motion. BOOKED AS A SUSPECT.

William Elljah, a negro man whose reputation among the members of the police department has never been the best, was arrested yesterday by Mounted Officers Clarke and McWilliams. He was booked as a suspect.

A MAN AND A BOY.

Charles Williford, a young man, and John Atmore, a small white boy, will appear in police court this morning. The man will stand up to answer the charge of disorderly conduct, and the boy will answer as prosecuting witness. During the morning the boy was sitting on a water plug near the corner of Alabama and Forsyth street playing with another boy. Williford passed by and either kicked at the boys or started to take part in the game. At any rate his foot came in contact with Atmore's forehead with suitclent force to cut an ugly gash from which the blood flowed freely. The boy was badly hurt and his screams brought Patroiman Steint to the scene by whom Williford was arrested. The man claimed that he struck the boy accidentally. At police headquarters Williford was placed behind the bars and attempted to pass out with the squad under sentence to the stockade, but was detected and detained.
